

Employee Handbook

Employees receive 24 paid leaves annually.

Leave requests require manager approval before they are considered approved.

Health insurance covers employees and their immediate families.

Employees may work from home up to three days per week with manager approval.

Databricks is used for large-scale data processing and ETL pipelines.

Python is the primary programming language used for automation and AI projects.

Machine Learning is a subset of Artificial Intelligence that enables systems to learn from data.